large consumers. All these things will be promised by the Memphis Gas and Electric Light; company in a letter to Mayor Paine Tuesday afternoon containing tentative schedules of rates needed to raise the annual deficit of approximately $826,000. The letter and rate schedules will be given to the mayor either in person or presented at the open meeting of the city commission Tuesday.

Plans for a large construction program as outlined in the report of F. G. Proutt, consulting engineer, will not be attempted by the gas company until the appraisal of the property of the company is completed and a rate of return established by the state utilities commission.

The percentage of increase can not be determined for either gas or electricity until the city commission accepts one or the tentative schedules. All of the schedules, however, contemplate an additional total return to the company of the 3826,000 mentioned by Mr. Prout in his report to the mayor.

"If the emergency rates are accepted by the city and granted to the company, the receivers will immediatly begin the expenditure of money to take care of the additions to the plants to care for present needs," Lovick P. Miles, attorney for the receivers, said "Acceptance of new business from residence property will be resumed by the electric department on Oct. 15, in the cuent the emergency rates are granted. Utilities commissions in other states have held and ordered gas companies to discontinue service to large consumera in order that they might take care of the domestic needs of their patrons. The Memphis Gas and Electric company is producing gas to the limit of its capacity now, and it may be necessary to secure some similar order from the Tennessee commission before we can take on pay gas business?

Speaking of the contemplated rate increases, Mr. Miles said that it was costing the company $1.60 per 1,000 cubic feet to deliver gas ready for use, while their present rates net them $1.29. Many large consumers use gas and it may be necessary to secure an order from the state commission ordering the receivers to discontinue this service and take care of the domestic needs. In this event, of course, service might be resumed earlier than otherwise.

"The elaborate building program which would necessitate the expenditure of approximately $5,500,000, as outlined in Mr. Proutt's report cannot be undertaken until the appraisal is completed and a permanent rate established by the commission, guaranteeing a reassonable rate of return on the investthe commission, guaranteeing a rea-mable rate of return on the investment over and above operating cost.

"For present needs, however, the receivers will issue notes having priority chairman of the league, summed up the league's attitude toward the city administration in the event recall petitions are presented and found to be in compliance with the law.

The league held a meeting Monday at which time the recall matter was taken up and discussed. Resolutions condemning the circulation of the petitions were adopted and the league went on record as favoring a clean-cut polley insofar as the present city government is concerned. The mayor and his associates were elected by a big reajerity in November, 1919, with the aid and asistance of the Citizen's league. They were drafted into service by the league and ran as straight candidates of the league.

Mayor Painc declared Tuesday that he knew nothing of the meeting of the league Monday and that the action taken by league members was entirely voluntary.

BRIGADE OF REDS

SEBASTOPOL, Crimea. Sept. 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Troops commanded by Gen. Baron Wrangel on the Taurada front, northwest of the sea of Azov, have surprised and captured, near Pologui, in the Oriekov region, the 134th Bolahevik brigade, including its staff and trains, according to reports reaching this city.

Soviet forces on this front are on the defensive and appear to have become exhausted as the result of their recent offensive campaign in Poland. "This is the Republicans' day of rejoicing. They planned, labored and paid for it, and I would not by any utterance of mine rob them of any of their joy. With a splendid organization and with the expenditure of every effort possible to great finances, they prepared the Republican state of Maine for this state election in the hope of persuading the country that the trend is heavily Republican in the national race.
